IMPORTANT BUSINESS NEWS

WHAT IS GOING ON TONIGHT

Vaudeville and Motion Pictures at the Auditorium.
Moving Pictures and Illustrated Songs at Breed Theater.
Meeting of Publicity Committee of Celebration.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Frank A. Bill has the exclusive sale of Men's King Quality $4 shoes—the shoe of shoes for men.

The road to business success is a plain as the road to market. A thorough, practical knowledge of business customs as taught at the New London Business College, New London, is essential. The young man or woman who expects to obtain employment in the business field. Write R. A. Brubeck, principal, for copy of catalogue.

THE AUDITORIUM.

The closing vaudeville bill of the season at the Auditorium is drawing well filled houses despite the warm weather, which speaks well for the quality of the entertainment provided by the management.

Jack Ingels, "the humorous feller," is a light comedian of the "ready kid" species and is a most versatile performer, introducing songs, stories, dancing and a dramatic recitation during the twelve minutes he occupies the stage.
The Alabama Trio are three lively colored entertainers who, with their funny minstrel act are obliged to respond to numerous bows and encores before their audiences are willing to let them off the stage.
The team of Lester and Alger are a pair of clean cut young men who indulge in a line of humorous conversation and well selected songs, and they always manage to leave their houses "laughing when they say good bye."
Rene La Velle is a hard shoe dancer of the first class, performing with ease and precision the most difficult moves and moves. The latest dance, "A game of baseball," is unique and right up to date.

The moving pictures for the first three days of the week are all good, dramatic and comedy subjects being well balanced. The Edison feature, "A Cup of Tea and She," is a drama of heart interest in the usual splendid Edison style. The Pathe subject, "The Way to Happiness," is a marvel of color photography. Other pictures are The Marathon Craze, The Sculptor's Love and Eddie is a Real Live One.

BREED THEATER.

Thrilling Wild West Motion Pictures.

The programme at the Breed theater this week is one of great interest, as it is fairly teeming with cowboys, wild chases over mountain and plain, picturesque mountain scenery and the glories of the golden west. Perhaps the picture of greatest interest is the one entitled, "The Mexican's Grudge," carrying a story of great strength and introducing many dramatic novelties. The Fighting Chance is another western picture that is equally interesting, inasmuch as it is one of the most beautiful scenic pictures seen in a long time. The other pictures, all of which are unusually attractive, are: Twin Brothers, Lucky Jim, The Dairymaid's Lovers and the beautifully colored one, The Bohemian Girl.

Madam Morelle was capably assisted by Miss Marion Bradley, contralto, of Dorchester, Mass., the excellent duet, "Whispering Hope," being a White, which was so satisfying to the generous sized audience that it was necessary to respond to an encore, when they gave a very novel arrangement of the ever popular Red Wing. The madam was afterwards heard to advantage in the popular illustrated song "If I Had a Thousand Lives to Live."
So many requests came to the box office to have Mr. Delaney continue his big hit, "Mornin', Cy!" that he is doing so for the first part of the week, retaining his other new one for Thursday.

WILD WEST SHOW.

The 101 Ranch Wild West Show, the only distinctively and exclusively authentic prairie amusement organization of the country, will visit this city on Thursday, presenting afternoon and evening performances at the Sachem park ball grounds and introducing itself with an elaborate and original forenoon street parade. Miller Bros. & Arlington, joint owners of the institution, make promise that nothing like the 101 Ranch traveling amusement adjacent in character or in magnitude has ever before been seen in this city. The real life of ranch and range and Indian camp will be reproduced in all its vivid and romantic picturesqueness by actual, living figures of the frontier.

The organization comes here direct from the Miller Bros.' ranch at Bliss, Okla., the largest and most famous in all the world. Every one of the 700 members of the show is a permanent employee of the great prairie enterprise, paroled to give the public a truthful view of the life that has vitalized western history. They look upon their summer tour in the nature of a holiday. At its conclusion they will return to their duties among the thousands of horses and cattle which roam the 101 Ranch fertile acres.

There are three of the Miller Bros.—Joseph C., Zack T. and George L.—and they are the pride and wonder of Oklahoma and all of the other great southwest. Their land holdings embrace more than thirty square miles. They are survivors of the days of the buffalo drive and the emigrant trail, and are proving in these days of crowded cities and contracted commercialization that the stock industry, on a gigantic scale, is just as immensely profitable today as ever in the history of the country.

The 101 Ranch has remained intact in all its vastness despite the influx of the small farmer. Into Oklahoma Regulation quarter-section homesteads completely encircle its area, but the 101 Ranch range still remains largely unbroken and rugged and the trails begin there. Several tribes of Indians, living as primitively as in the old days, have their homes on the great tract, and the buffalo wanders at will. Incidentally the Miller Bros. own more than one-tenth of the present day number of this one distinctive American animal.

The organization which is coming to this city is an amplified edition of the show which started the amusement world last year. It is a living page from frontier history, without professionalism or theatrics. It is solely a "real" wild west show. Every feature and figure is original with the 101 Ranch—cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, bucking horses and trained cow ponies, champions of the lariat, the gun and the bow and arrow, longhorn steers, pure blooded buffaloes, emigrant pioneers and old time prairie stage coaches. Without variation or illusion the sports, perils, pastimes, hardships, adventures, chivalries and routine duties of the ranch and range are reproduced in a great arena.

This 101 Ranch tournament, from its very nature and source, is different and distinct from anything ever shown before. Under canvas, Miller Bros. & Arlington promise that none of the hackneyed, tiresome, familiar round of other so-called and mis-called "wild west" exhibitions enter into its sporting, rollicking and reckless displays. It is fresh, clean and wholesome, fairly tingling with the breath of prairie and of mountain. There is not a man or woman in it who has not learned the secrets of the border and out in the sagebrush and the prairie and who cannot read the grass and the sky with understanding eyes. The grand entry at each performance is a veritable echo of the plains and the cattle trail.

A Great Roof Garden.

As New York has been called the modern Babylon, it is perhaps fitting that one of its most prominent hotels should attempt to eclipse the famous hanging gardens of the ancient city with a roof garden that shall represent the eighth wonder. In the old days kings and emperors taxed their subjects to provide themselves with new and expensive delights, and this one will doubtless exact tribute, but only from those who are able and willing to pay it. It is claimed that this roof garden will be the largest in the world, but its size will be its least distinguishing feature. At one end of the garden a mountain brook plunges down the side of a rocky promontory into a woodland pool, alive with fishes in its depths and aquatic birds upon its surface. More than five hundred trees and flowering plants have already been set out and there are more to come. There will be a rose garden, a palm garden and other gardens, with a full orchestra in each, while from the sixty-foot staff a large white flag will be blown steadily by a motor fan and on this banner a searchlight will flash the stars and stripes, except when a foreign ambassador is a guest at the hotel, when the flag of his country will be substituted. Yet even this fairy land at their doors will hardly prevent rich New Yorkers from seeking as usual the brooks and woodlands as nature made them.
